Bomontiada, the city's latest and greatest cultural spot, is now located within the grounds of this historic beer factory. The city's first certified organic bazaar is held in Bomonti every Saturday, pulling in locals as well as the city's top chefs. Feriköy Antiques Market, held every Sunday, serves as a perfect opportunity to appreciate the storied past of the city. Bomonti encapsulates the essence of Istanbul: mosques, churches, and synagogues stand at a stone's throw of each other, a testament to the area's cosmopolitan nature. Nişantaşı and Taksim are within walking distance, with the Osmanbey metro stop only a short distance away. The new tunnels make Bomonti even more accessible with quick access to TEM and Dolmabahçe.
